Lewis Assails Destructive Agricultural Policies And Offers New 7-Point Plan

Opens Congress Campaign With Talk at Carrollton; Cites Need for Legislators Who Are Not "Rubber Stamps"

CARROLLTON, April 18.—Launching his campaign for the Republican congressional nomination in the Eighteenth district here Friday night, Earl R. Lewis, St. Clairsville, former state senator and floor leader, assailed the destructive agricultural policies of the Roosevelt administration and offered a constructive seven-point program as a remedy for problems confronting farmers and business men.

Speaking in the Carroll county courthouse as a guest of the Young Republican club, Lewis shared the program with one of his opponents, Rev. Edgar Cochran of Steubenville, and State Senator Robert Pollock of Canton. Richard I. Saltzman, club president, presided. More than 100 men and women heard a severe indictment of the New Deal and a rallying cry for congressional timber that cannot be wielded as a "rubber stamp."

Denounces Regimentation
Rev. Cochran denounced regimentation of agricultural and business interests by the Democratic administration, declared that another four years of Roosevelt meant dictatorship and held that the dominant issue of the campaign is "survival of free local government in the United States."

Senator Pollock briefly attacked Governor Davey's "economy speech" at Steubenville, declaring the cost of operating the governor's office has increased 46 per cent in 15 months and that if all state departments had increased expenses in proportion, Ohio would be bankrupt.

Prefacing his prepared speech, Lewis reviewed the legislative record at Washington and found some of it, including guaranteed bank deposits, home owners' loan and certain extensions of credits to farmers commendable but mismanaged and ineffective, then applied the label of "collectivism" to administration relief and business policies which he said were "designed to herd people into lockstep."

"Collectivism," he said, "as attempted by the New Deal, is the direct opposite of what you and I think good for free-born Americans."

"It seems to me self-evident that the farmers' problem at bottom is that the proceeds derived from the sale of the products of his effort are not proportional at all to the proceeds derived from sale of the products of industry which he buys."

Nation's Biggest Business
"Agriculture in the United States constitutes the largest single business and those engaged in agriculture constitute the greatest potential market of any group of our citizenry and I think it is self-evident that there can be no sound economic life in this country except it be based upon a fair and equitable parity of prices for the products of agriculture measured over against the products of industry. The restoration, therefore, of a fair parity between the products of agriculture and the products of industry is the immediate goal as well as the ultimate condition to be sought. This parity must be obtained not by diminishing the return to industry but by increasing the returns to agriculture."

"What progress has been made by the present administration in its attempts to solve this farm problem? Seeing the surplus of our principal farm crops, it has declared that surpluses must be eliminated and has through the Agricultural Adjustment Act sought to eliminate them by destroying crops already planted and livestock already in existence and has sought to prevent the creation of new surpluses by the payment of subsidies from the public treasury to farmers for not raising hogs and not producing corn and other crops. The theory underlying this attempt to help the farmer has been based upon a desire to artificially create a scarcity or shortage of essential farm products. This method of dealing with the farmers' problems runs exactly counter to the whole genius of American agriculture."

Imported Food
"As a result of our policy of destruction of livestock and crops and restriction of production in 1933 and 1934, we learned with dismay that we did not produce sufficient food products for our people and were compelled to import vast quantities of foreign produced food of the very kind which we had in the two preceding years destroyed in such quantities."

"In 1933 we imported about 100,000 bushels of corn, which was artificially created scarcity, we imported more than 42,000,000 bushels of corn, which if it had been produced in America would have given the farmers of this country a profitable market for the produce of 1,000,000 more acres of corn land."

"In 1933 we imported less than 32,000 bushels of wheat. In 1935 we imported more than 10,000,000 bushels of wheat, which had been produced in this country would have given American farmers a profitable market for 1,800,000 more acres of wheat land."

"In 1933 we imported less than 133,000 bushels of oats. In 1935 we imported more than 10,000,000 bushels of oats, which had been produced in this country would have given the American farmers a profitable market for the products of more than 400,000 acres of oats land for the American farmer."

"In 1935 we imported 9,600,000 bushels of rye which had been produced in this country would have given the American farmers a profit for more than 640,000 acres of their land."

"In 1932 we imported 6,500 live hogs. In 1935 we were compelled to import more than 3,400,000 live hogs."

KNOX CONFERS WITH LEADERS

G. O. P. Presidential Candidate Returns After Illinois Triumph

By LEONARD B. SHUBERT, Associated Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, April 18.—Col. Frank Knox, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, was expected to arrive in the capital today to begin a round of conferences with party leaders.

Fresh from his preferential primary contests with Senator Borah of Idaho in Illinois, the Chicago publisher planned a series of meetings with Republican chieftains in Washington, New York and other key points on the Atlantic seaboard.

With returns nearly complete, the Knox supporters at Chicago laid claim to 55 of the 57 delegates the state will send to the national convention at Cleveland in June.

The latest count shows the Knox vote to be 486,760 to Borah's 396,029. Knox carried Cook county (Chicago) by 110,294 votes while Borah was running 37,563 ahead downtown.

Of particular interest to the Democrats was the showing made by President Roosevelt, unopposed in his party's primary in Illinois. Latest figures show his vote was $464,652 greater than that polled by Borah and Knox together.

KARPIS GANG IS BLAMED

J. Edgar Hoover Sees Solution of Hamm Abduction

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 18.—J. Edgar Hoover announced today arrest of three men in connection with the kidnapping of William A. Hamm, Jr., St. Paul brewer.

"I think we've solved the Hamm kidnapping at last," he told reporters.

The director of the federal bureau of investigation said the Hamm kidnapping involved "the same gang" as the kidnapping of Edward Bremer. In which the Barker-Karpis gang was involved.

Prisoners Named

Those arrested were named as Charles J. Fitzgerald, Jack Pfeiffer and Edward C. Bartholmey, postmaster at Bensonville, Ill. All suspects are now in St. Paul or en route there, Hoover said.

Also involved in the Hamm case, he announced, are Byron Bolton, now in jail at St. Paul for the Bremer kidnapping, Elmer Farmer, also convicted in the Bremer case, Arthur "Doc" Barker, serving sentence in Alcatraz island, California, penitentiary, Fred Barker, killed by federal agents in a battle at Oklawaha, Florida, last year, and Alvin Karpis, "public enemy No. 1," still at large.

The actual perpetrators of the kidnapping were named by Hoover as Alvin Karpis, Arthur and Fred Barker, Fred (Shotgun) Zeigler, Goetz, since killed; Fitzgerald and Bolton.

Hoover said "there may be more arrests soon." He added that all those arrested today had been charged under secret warrants on April 11.

Identifies "Prison"

The investigation chief said that Hamm this morning identified the home of Bartholmey as the house in which he was held while the kidnappers awaited payment of $100,000 ransom which secured his release.

Hamm was kidnapped on Thursday, June 15, 1933, after he had departed from his office in the Theodore Hamm Brewing company for luncheon. He was taken to a hideout where he was held until June 19, 1933. He was released at a point near Wyoming, Minn., after payment of the ransom. Hamm was president of the brewing company.

A LITTLE MATTER OF DIGNITY

Concern over the high-handed antics of the Black lobby investigation committee of the senate is shared by many apprehensive citizens with members of congress, particularly senators. The Black committee is by no means supported enthusiastically in its "smelling" expeditions, which clearly are directed against opponents of the Roosevelt administration, not against the practice of lobbying as a whole.

Americans have a habit of asserting their independence at embarrassing moments. Within the last few days two witnesses appearing before the Black committee deliberately have affronted their questioners. One of them, Kurt Grunwald of the Farmers Independence council, curtly refused to name persons he had solicited for support. Asked by Sen. Black if he would get such persons into trouble by naming them, Mr. Grunwald retorted: "I'd be a damn fool to give the names. You bet your boots I'd get them in trouble under this new deal."

Another witness, Vance Muse, manager of the Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution, deliberately flaunted the committee. Threatened with a charge of contempt, Mr. Muse replied he would consider it an honor. Apparently, when ways and means of dealing with threats to the rights of citizens are being considered, it is necessary to remember that individual citizens still are willing to stand up for their rights. In the meantime it seems safe to assume that the best reason for thinking the Black probes will come to a bad end is the fact they are hurting the dignity of the senate. Senators never have been accused of negligence in protecting that most precious of their attributes.

"SCANDAL AND DISREPUTE"

News of senatorial activities in Washington has been scarce for several days due to the senate's preoccupation with impeachment charges against Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter of Florida. After failing to reach the necessary two-thirds vote on six of the charges included in the indictment against Judge Ritter, the senate on Friday finally voted to convict him on the seventh article, which charged the jurist with bringing his court "into scandal and disrepute."

It would be difficult and perhaps uncharitable to attempt to sift through the mass of evidence considered by the senate in determining Judge Ritter's guilt. The responsibility for removing him from the bench is best left with the senate. But something can be done and said about the charges which were made in the impeachment.

The prosecution attempted to prove that in his presiding over a receivership case Judge Ritter had engaged in unjudicial and corrupt practices in awarding the large fee of $75,000 to an attorney who was his former law partner. If memory serves correctly, there have been complaints that other judges have abused their privileges by doubtful practices in receivership cases. Many have been accused of passing out large fee plums to attorneys with whom they were not altogether unfriendly.

If the Ritter case has served any purpose other than to discredit one judge deemed guilty of unjudicial conduct, it is to be hoped that attention has been directed to what almost might be called the receivership racket.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, April 18—Many of the outland neurologists are crossing the line with high epistolary hope for Gov. Alf Landon. They base their prophecy on the final "n" in his name. A "natural" they say, and point to Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Jackson, Van Buren, Harrison, Buchanan, Lincoln, Harrison and Wilson.

A cartoonist writes from the coast. He has held many jobs but is now careening toward the dole. Two fellow cartoonists call now and then, complaining of their lot. One gets $750 a week but is disappointed because his contract running two years longer blocks him from $1,500 a week.

The other fellow gets $800 a week and wishes to know when his bosses are going to pay him somewhere near his worth. That's tough medicine to gulp when a fellow isn't making a nickel and burning hamburger over a gas jet on the q. t. No despair touches unemployment that offers no hope. How I know!

Poets owe an eternal debt to Edith Sitwell for making the world poetry conscious. What exquisite beauty in these lines: "Poetry may float like a swan, sigh like a little air among ruins, flutter like a nightingale seeking rest among leaves. Or rush like a tornado, sweeping doom before it..."

Once in my life I had the experience of stepping out with one of those dazzlers a fellow always sees with the other guy. One perfectly turned out for the old Ziegfeld front line. I squirmed her to dinner at the St. Nicholas in Cincinnati. A party of husbands and wives were at a large circular table near the door as we entered. I heard several knives and forks drop into plates, saw necks crane and four waiters were bowing at the waist when we reached the best table. The service was beyond compare. A young woman with good judgment, clean habits and vast beauty has the world at her feet. And groveling!

"The Gay 90's!" Many apt labels have been pasted onto days that were. Somehow I like best "The Gas Light Era." It packs a significance unmatched by the rest, though it may more properly apply to a day before the 90's. Somebody—Burton Rascoe, I believe—thought up for those days immediately following the 90's "The Naughty Aughties"—and that's excellent. I have a lingering suspicion a great chunk of things we tie up to the 90's came just after 1900. In point of fact, there is a lost period tucked in there somewhere best suggested to me by that "You Can't Holler Down My Rain Barrel" song.

I shall cede finis for the depression when I hear lusty street corner laughing again. That rowdy facetiousness that geysered at slightest provocation. One may pass through an entire subway train and never wangle a thin smile. Many of us forget how the revolving doors used to whirr. How cash registers jingled. We've forgotten how things used to—and will again—hum. Here's a descriptive bit Russ Cole thought up that's a beauty: "The Sonja girls." You know, the kind that look all made up for a sleigh ride in Moscow!

Peter Arno, Steig or one of the deft delineators should limn the vapidity of those triangle-faced ne'er-do-wells on Broadway corners. The play "Kindling," with Margaret Anglin, etched one of the ratty breed perfectly. A slum room where his mother, a stringy haired old woman, thin and weak, was doing a bit of washing. Our hero was dressed nattily, a cigaret in proper droop. The worn, aching lady wrung out a garment and laid it on a chair. The son took the chair by the back, dashed the piece of wash to the floor and sat down. And later perhaps went out to do some cabaret crying over a home and mother song!

I was telling Charlie Driscoll today the nearest we see human beings as God intended is in the photographs of newly marrieds. Always the groom wears a boutonniere, always. They suggest a whiff of Heaven, something higher than earthly happiness. The only exception: Douglas Fairbanks and Lady Ashley. Incidentally, Driscoll observed that the worst thing that could happen to a young groom is to marry a Terrible Smiler. The lithographic smile. A prop smile sterilized of all real mirth. The smile of the blonde in the second row end!

Manna for press agents. An idea that would restore the lost popularity of the walking stick should be worth a fortune to the thinker-upper. So this closes another wandering column. As a learned judge of the Radio Good Will Court says: "It shouldn't mitigate against me."

Bell's Palsy

RECENTLY SEVERAL letters have come to me asking questions about "trigeminal neuralgia." You will recall that I described this annoying and painful affliction. Unfortunately, there is a great deal of confusion about it. Many persons erroneously believe that any irritation of the facial nerve is due to trigeminal neuralgia.

Today, I want to tell you about facial paralysis. Facial paralysis, or "Bell's palsy" as the doctors call it, is often confused with other disturbances of the facial nerve. Too often it is mistaken for simple neuralgia or neuritis. In most instances Bell's palsy is rather serious, requiring careful medical attention.

The symptoms are due to some damage of the facial nerve, the nerve which controls certain muscles of the face. The ailment may result from a blow or other injury to this nerve. Should the nerve be injured, the muscles which are supplied by the branches of the facial nerve are affected.

As a rule, the first sign is a feeling of discomfort which is soon followed by severe pain in the face on the affected side. Usually it is located just below or behind the ear. Paralysis of the muscles may or may not be present at this time, but sooner or later it appears.

When this occurs the victim has no control of the affected muscles. Consequently there is a drooping of that side of the face. The good facial muscles of the other side seem unusually active. They pull the normal side away from the paralyzed one. This produces a puckering of the lips and makes difficult talking, smoking and even eating.

Not Incurable
Contrary to a common belief, Bell's palsy is not incurable. The paralysis may slowly wear off, permitting a return of function in the diseased muscles. It is difficult to estimate how long it will take for a marked improvement to appear. Complete recovery of the injured nerve always takes considerable time.

I must not give the impression that every case of facial paralysis is curable. Of course, if there is actual destruction of the facial nerve, recovery is not to be expected. It is necessary accurately to determine the real nature of the trouble. If the nerve has been severed, favorable results are impossible.

This form of paralysis must not be confused with that caused by hemorrhage in the brain, by stroke or other serious disability. Facial paralysis may occur as a complication of infection of some sort. In such cases the treatment depends upon the underlying cause.

In many instances recovery can be hastened by the application of high-frequency electrical current. The various lamps and rays, sun baths and massages are sometimes beneficial but they should be given only under the supervision of a physician. Let your doctor advise you about the treatment essential to recovery.

THE SURPLUS

Safety in a financial institution is measured by the surplus or excess of assets over obligations. Throughout its history it has been the policy of The Home Savings & Loan Company to build up a strong surplus for the protection of its depositing members. On December 31, 1925 each $100.00 of stock deposits in this institution was protected by $103.89 of net assets after all other obligations had been paid. By December 31, 1930, this amount had increased to $108.97, and on December 31, 1935 each $100.00 of stock deposits was protected by $107.21. THROUGHOUT THE WORST DEPRESSION OF ALL HISTORY THIS INSTITUTION HAS INCREASED ITS MARGIN OF SAFETY.

A Review of the Day's News

By Arthur Brisbane

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

TWO THOUSAND English men and women paraded around Windsor Green prison, protesting while British justice hanged Dorothy Waddingham, thirty-four-year-old mother of five children, one of them only six months old.

She had committed murder; and in England when you commit murder they hang you, protest or no protest. The crowd, led by Mrs. Violet Van Der Elst, who objects to capital punishment, was orderly. Some knelt and prayed.

Only the new King Edward could have saved the woman's life and English kings are too wise to meddle with law.

THE WOMAN had murdered with poison a patient in her nursing home and the patient's daughter to get an $8,000 legacy, willied to her by the victim. The trap was sprung, a black flag was run up on the prison, flagstaff, women knelt, praying and weeping. England had hanged the ninth woman in this century.

They hang them in England and they have few murderers. We parole them, or pardon them, or let them almost die of old age in prison, and have thousands of murders.

ROME REPORTS, "Addis Ababa in three days," meaning that Ethiopia's capital is to be taken next week. That might remind some Italians unpleasantly of the big war, when Germans marching through Belgium held up five fingers saying in German:

"Paris in five days."

It was a long "five days," but Germany was fighting France, England, Russia and some other countries. Mussolini is fighting Ethiopia.

HE SAYS, by the way, that if Haile Selassie wants peace now, he must go direct to Marshall Pietro Badoglio and get it from him. The League of Nations

YOU READ with mild surprise that throughout the world, generally, industrial activity would have been ahead, recently, except that the United States held down the average. Leaving out the United States, world production increased. You wonder when this "richest country on earth" will catch up, and START AHEAD.

The "annalist" shows that in spite of floods, business here improved last month; the important increase was in automobile production. Men want to move, above whatever else they do.

SEEING the inside of things began long ago, when primitive woman learned to know what her husband was thinking. It began, physically, with the Roentgen and X-rays, bones photographed, bullets located.

A remarkable new device for "seeing inside of things" is reported to Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., by one of his laboratories. To learn what happens inside of an automobile cylinder when the gas explodes, a camera that takes 5,000 pictures a second, is geared to the crankshaft.

Explosion in the cylinder from "flame to ashes" lasts only one 250th part of a second, but during that flash the camera takes 20 separate photographs.

A WONDERFUL thing is "microchemistry." It tells scientists that off the coast of Greenland Sea water contains more gold than in New York Harbor; that one village in Switzerland has less gold than another, because in the first the dew-drops contain more iodine.

Dr. Benedikt Pichler, of New York university, expects great things of microchemistry, developed originally by two Austrian scientists.

Evangelist

Beginning Monday evening, Rev. L. T. Stewart, evangelist of Wilson, Pa., will conduct two weeks of special services at the Lighthouse tabernacle, 175 West State st.

Rev. Stewart, an outstanding expositor of the prophecies of the Bible, has just closed a successful campaign in Bloomington, Ind. The topics of several of the sermons which he will preach here are:

"The Wine-press or Battle of Armageddon," "The Mark of the Anti-Christ," "The World's Last Prayer Meeting," "Hell Opened During the Tribulation Period," "Russia's Attitude Toward God," "What Does It Mean?" and "Christ in the Barren Room."

Evangelist M. R. Searies will preach the sermon at the tabernacle service at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow on the subject, "What Is an Old-Fashioned Revival? Can We Have One in Salem?"

English Lutheran Luther Leagues To Go To Warren Meet

The Junior and Senior Luther Leagues of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church will meet tomorrow in connection with the C. Y. Federation of Luther Leagues at St. Paul's church in Warren, Rev. George D. Keister, pastor announced today.

Services for the church tomorrow and announcements for the week are as follows:

Sunday school 9:45 (Luke 15:11-24), Lewis Hirst, Supt.

"God does permit men, to a certain extent, to have their own way. The right of choice is the possession of man. This implies the choice to follow God and to serve and remain in His Kingdom. That is a good choice. There are wrong choices. They inevitably bring sad results. There are shipwrecks all along the way of life due to choices that were wrong. When a person disobeys, that call and command which is good and proper, then sad results are sure to follow. It is always possible through faith and repentance for the sinner to come back to God. This desire may be strangled by the hard-hearted attitude which sin causes. God will surely forgive if only man returns upon bended knee and with contrite heart."

Morning worship 11:00. Sermon: "Peace Through Christ."

"World peace is a worthy goal for the human race. Its realization seems farther away now than for many a decade. The forces of war seem to be in the driver's seat. Yet there is another sense of peace, that we still can have if the nationalistic and selfish interests still demand war and destruction. It is that inner peace that only the Savior, Jesus Christ can give. Money cannot buy it. Labor cannot earn it. It is a gift from heaven through Jesus Christ to his believing children. Jesus said, 'My peace, I give unto you.'"

The Junior and Senior Luther Leagues meet in conjunction with the C. Y. Federation of Luther Leagues at St. Paul's church of Warren, at 3 p. m.

Health Causes Concern

Since his coronation, Pope Pius has appeared yearly on the balcony of the Basilica of St. Peter's to conduct the Easter service in St. Peter's Square. This Easter Day, because of his holiness' weakened condition, Cardinal Pacelli, Papal Secretary of State, conducted the service, while the Pope celebrated mass in his private chapel. He spent the afternoon in his apartments in the Vatican with members of his family.

Lisbon First Presbyterian Church

The earliest settlers in this community, according to early history, were principally of the Presbyterian and German Lutheran faith, the former, however, being the first to effect an organization here. It is recorded that this was accomplished in 1806, or about three years after Lewis Kinney "erected and founded the town of New Lisbon," the latter being the historical date of Feb. 16, 1803.

It has been said, in fact, that the Presbyterians were the pioneers of religious societies here.

Rev. Clement L. Vallandigham was the first Presbyterian minister. He served the congregation here from 1807 to 1839, his service as a minister in this community being continuous.

This minister was born in Allegheny county, Pa., and early church history records that "Vallandigham was an old school Presbyterian clergyman." This minister first began his preaching career here by holding services under a tent.

The Presbyterian congregation in those early days consisted in the main of those of Scotch-Irish descent who settled in and about the then New Lisbon.

Rev. Vallandigham, who died in 1839, while still a Presbyterian minister here, has been remembered as a small man, who, though "not a great preacher," was a most exemplary character, and to whom his congregation was strongly attached. His salary being insufficient for his support, he, to make up the deficiency, and to prepare his four sons for college, established a classical school in his own home, this residence on West Lincoln way being a cherished pioneer land mark here.

In addition to holding "meetings" under a tent in the summer time, this pioneer Presbyterian minister held services in the cooler seasons of the year in the first log courthouse.

According to Presbyterian church history, in the month of September, 1807, appears the first record of a baptism, that of James, a son of Davidson and Agnes Filson.

The first Presbyterian church was erected in 1814 on a site nearly west of the present county jail. It was a large, plain, uncomfortable one-story building, in which the seats were high and the aisles were paved with brick. This first building served the congregation well until the congregation was incorporated in 1836, when members conceived the idea of building a new church. A site was acquired at the northeast corner of North Market and East Chestnut sts., and a "large new church" was completed in 1841. The new church cost about $8,000, and was built during the pastorate of Rev. A. O. Patterson.

Some years later, this church building was damaged by fire to such an extent that it was necessary to raze the building and another was erected on the same site.

Still later, as the community continued to grow and the membership of the church increased, the building was razed and the present brick structure was erected and dedicated in 1897 while Rev. J. P. Anderson was pastor. It was completed at a cost of about $15,000. At that time the church had a membership of 525 and was considered by all as being in a very prosperous condition. An early history of the church relates that "a large Sabbath school tests the capacity of the Sunday school room."

This congregation continued to grow and prosper, and during the rather recent pastorate of Rev. Peter W. Macaulay, who is now serving as pastor of the Miles ave. Presbyterian church, Cleveland, a program was adopted to enlarge the church. A large addition was erected on the east side of the church, and today the church has the largest auditorium and Sunday school room of any church in the community.

Time has wrought many changes in the several churches built by this congregation. In the present church is a beautiful choir loft and pipe organ. In the first church that was built, below the quaint pulpit was a seat for the clerk, who led the singing. This office was performed many years by Alexander Mathews, who "lined" the hymns, generally repeating two lines at a time, then pitched the tune with a device somewhat like a tuning fork, so common among chorists today.

Around the church yard of this early church was a high fence, along which were posts for the farmers to hitch their horses.

Today, however, there is no place to which a horse can be hitched near the present church. Instead, motor cars are parked along the Market st. and East Chestnut st. curbing.

Attendance Grows At Army Meetings

An increase of 14 in attendance was reported this week at the Salvation Army headquarters, 142 West Second st., by Envoys Clarence Steed. Five persons became members by conversion.

Attendance at the Army meetings now is at 60 per cent, Steed announced. He issued an appeal again today for old cots to care for transients who stay at the Army rooms over night.

Science Society Services Sunday

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read at the morning worship of the Christian Science Society church tomorrow. The lesson-sermon is also broadcast over radio station WHK in Cleveland every second and fourth Sunday in the month at 11 a. m.

Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow while on Wednesday the regular mid-week services will be held at the church at 8 p. m.

The Golden text for tomorrow is: "The preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the power of God." (I Corinthians 1:18).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And it came to pass, that as they went in the way, a certain man said unto him, Lord, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest." (Luke 9:57).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "He who leaves all for Christ forsakes popularity and gains Christianity.... The cross is the central emblem of history. It is the lodestar in the demonstration of Christian healing—the demonstration by which sin and sickness are destroyed." (p. 238).

Services Tomorrow At Church of God

"The Slaughter of the Infants" is the subject of the sermon which will be preached by G. A. Tabor, pastor at the morning worship of the Church of God tomorrow.

Services for the church are as follows:

9:45 a. m. Church school.

10:45 a. m. — Morning worship with sermon.

7:30 p. m. — Bible study.

Sunday Services At St. John A.M.E.

Services for the St. John A. M. E. church tomorrow as announced by J. B. Cooper, minister, are as follows:

9:45 to 10:55 a. m., Study period. Lesson subject, "God, the Forgiving Father."

"In the lesson, we are clearly shown how God gives man a trial with material blessing, how He tolerates or permits man's selfishness, how He lets him go his way, how He permits him to live riotously like a fool. At length, he comes to the end of himself in misery, poverty and genuine repentance, conviction and confession. God repents with compassion, love, clothing, public acknowledgement, honor and rejoicing. Joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repents more than 99 just persons who need no repentance."

11 a. m., Evangelistic message. "Father, I Have Sinned Before Heaven and Before Thee."

"Here we have the word picture of a man who had seen what many call life. Now, deserted by all in wretchedness and humble filth, he remembered home and Father. He made up his mind to throw himself at the mercy of his Father. He did. He came just as he was. He was received, welcomed, forgiven and honored. There was no condemnation. Thus Jesus shows us God's disposition toward folks who are tired of sin and seek forgiveness."

"You made no mistake in assuming that Easter saw every church in our city well filled with worshippers. It is the one day on the church calendar when vacant pews are few. The festival of the Resurrection is a great incentive to Christian worship. It is not impossible to retain the spirit of Easter for every Lord's day. The risen Lord is ever present and His word is ever powerful. The same Gospel is preached from Lord's day to Lord's day as on Easter day. The same joyful songs are heard, the same risen Lord is worshiped, who bestows the same grace to all who will receive it. He has promised to be where two or three are assembled in His name. Can I afford not to be where my risen Lord is when He is ready every Lord's day to give what my life has need of?"

Grove Limits Yankees To Two Hits As Red Sox Win, 8-0

"Lefty" Won't Say How Many Games He'll Win But Experts Boost Figures

Detroit Tigers Humbled by White Sox, 5-3; Derringer Holds Chicago Cubs to Seven Hits To Aid Cincinnati Reds In Victory

By ANDY CLARKE, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Bob (Lefty) Grove, the portside flinger of the Red Sox, won't say how many games he expects to win this year, but the experts have boosted their figures a bit after watching him in his debut.

On a chilly, sunless day, the kind on which pitchers are not supposed to be at their best, Grove ruined the New York opening of the Yankees, by shutting them out 8-0, allowing only two hits. It was a day on which fewer than 80,000 fans braved the chill winds to witness the "second openings" and three pilots who usually go under the billing of "playing managers" were probably content to spend their time in the shelter of the dugout.

"I'll tell you in September," says Grove when asked how many games he will win, but if his start is any indication, he should surpass his record of last year. He won 20, lost 12, and led the American league in effectiveness with an earned run average of 2.70. This year he has Jimmie Foxx, Roger Cramer, Heinie Manush and a couple of other potent bat wielders knocking in the runs and this shouldn't have any bad effect on his won and lost statistics.

Gehrig Gets Hits

Lou Gehrig got both of the Yankees hits but they were futile gestures against a defense that bottled the opposition so that not a Yankee reached second base.

Grove's two-hitter two matched by Jimmy Deshong of the Washington Senators, pitching to the comparatively feeble Athletics, who were defeated 3-2. One of the hits was a homer by Pinky Higgins.

Whereas a total of 205,000 fans turned out for the sunny opening of the season Tuesday, only 79,354 were on deck yesterday with the temperature dipping to low levels. The Cards-Pirates game was postponed because of the cold.

Two managers were on the sidelines with injured thumbs and Bill Jurges, Cub shortstop, was forced to retire after injuring that member. Joe Cronin of the Red Sox, who says he will stay on the bench if his new infield combination proves effective, watched his team play, in miff, his broken thumb encased in splints, while Mickey Cochrane, the driving pilot of the Tigers, also was confined to the dugout with a thumb injury by a foul tip Wednesday. Bill Terry, Giants manager, stepped to the plate as a pinch hitter, sore knee and all and delivered a double that gave his team a 6-4 triumph over the Boston Bees.

Tigers Lose
Cochrane saw his champions humbled 5-3 by the White Sox with the largest crowd of the day, 32,175, in the home park. With Johnny

Lake Placencia Nine withdraws from County League at Meeting

Managers of teams from Salem, Lisbon, East Liverpool, Newell, Lake Placencia, Sebring, Kensington, East Palestine, Salineville met in Lisbon last night and furthered plans for the opening of the Columbiana County Baseball league May 6.

The high spot of the meeting was Lake Placencia's withdrawal from the league because it was not permitted to enlist five players from last year's Alliance Merchants' team. The constitution of the circuit does not allow a team to use players who reside outside of the school district in which it is located.

Candidates for the Salem Merchants team will report at the Memorial building at 2 p. m. tomorrow to go to Dunn Eden park for practice, James Reaney, business manager, announced.

Theater Attractions

A famous incident in history is used as the title and plot for the film, "A Message to Garcia," showing at the State Sunday and Monday. Taken from Elbert Hubbard's essay, the story concerns one of history's most interesting exploits. The picture has a three star cast, Barbara Stanwyck, Wallace Beery and John Boles.

Boles is the man who carries the message to Garcia, in the jungle interior of Cuba, a message that will change the destinies of three nations. For a companion, Boles takes an amusing rogue who is half traitor, half hero, played by Beery.

Hardship, peril and adventures face them on their treacherous journey. They are to meet a man in the interior who will give them directions to find Garcia. When they arrive they find the man has been killed. His daughter, Barbara Stanwyck, offers to lead them. Thus their party is enlarged and three carry on with the message.

Romance enters the picture when Boles and Miss Stanwyck fall in love. Miss Stanwyck is injured and left behind as the others forge ahead. Beery sets things right finally by leading Garcia's forces against the enemy and reuniting the lovers.

A double bill is offered at the State for Tuesday and Wednesday. "The Country Beyond" is a James Oliver Curwood story of the north country and the mountains. Rochelle Hudson and Paul Kelly are its stars but the main attraction is "Buck," the St. Bernard dog that made his hit in "Call of the Wild."

The second feature on the double bill is "Love On a Bet" with Gene Raymond, Wendy Barrie and Helen Broderick, the comedian from the Broadway stage.

New Fred Stone Film
Those who remember and liked Fred Stone as the father of Katherine Hepburn in "Alice Adams" will be interested to know his new film, "The Farmer in the Dell," comes to the State Thursday only.

Stone is seen in Phil Strong's popular novel in a role made to order for him, that of a kindly Iowa farmer who keeps his head and the sense of true values when motion picture fame strikes his simple life.

An airplane picture with a new angle will be seen at the State Friday and Saturday. "13 Hours By Air" is the title and Fred MacMurray and Joan Bennett are seen in the leading roles. The supporting cast includes Zasu Pitts, John Howard, Grace Bradley, Alan Baxter, Ruth Donnelly, Fred Keating and Brian Donlevy. Baxter and Donlevy won fame for their excellent portrayal of two gangsters in Sylvia Sydney's last film, "Mary Burns, Fugitive."

Tonight is the last chance to see "Magnificent Obsession," a film that will probably be one of the best pictures of this year. Irene Dunn and Robert Taylor are seen in the leads.

The Grand offers "Song of the Saddle" with Dick Foran, the singing cowboy, for the last time tonight. Sunday and Monday a double feature is scheduled. "Hell-Ship" Morgan with Victor Jory, George Bancroft and Ann Sothern, is the first film followed by "Another Face," with an all star cast.

Next Friday and Saturday "The Sagebrush Trail" will be shown with Gene Autry, another "singing cowboy" picture.

"In 1935 we were compelled to import 4,000,000 pounds of fresh pork."

Farmer Complaining

"In the light of these facts it is little wonder that the American farmer is bitterly complaining that the present agricultural policies of our government are turning the American markets over to the foreign farmer."

"While unsound policies of the Federal government should be criticized and their destructive effects pointed out, mere criticism will not solve the pressing problems of agriculture and anyone who aspires to represent this district in congress should be able to advance constructive remedies. Inasmuch as the farmers' problem largely centers on the disposition of agricultural surpluses I wish to suggest the following measures as possible methods of dealing with such surplus products:

"First: The American market must be returned to the American farmer and protected for him and importation of foreign foodstuffs must be limited to those products and in those amounts which we need in this country but which the American farmer does not produce. Much of the existing agricultural free list should be eliminated and where importation of foreign farm products is permitted they should come in only under official permits issued by the revenue authorities after a showing of actual need and non-competition with American farm products."

"Second: There must always exist a normal surplus or carry over of each farm crop from which seed for the next year's crop may be forthcoming and sufficiently large to guard against crop failures in the succeeding year."

"Third: Instead of bending our efforts towards curtailment of crops and livestock and the creation of an artificial scarcity, governmental efforts should be directed toward the development of new money crops for the farmer and of new markets therefore in industry."

"Fourth: Whatever surplus of farm products remains must be disposed of in our export markets, by governmental assistance if necessary, under some one or more of the plans already suggested for that purpose but notably the export devaluation plan advocated by the national granary."

Cooperative Action

"Fifth: To give the farmer the benefit of mass of quantity purchasing and mass or quantity marketing, which industry enjoys, the farmer should be encouraged and assisted by appropriate legislation in the creation and maintenance of farmer owned and farmer controlled cooperative purchasing and marketing associations, and closely connected with these there should be provided rural credit facilities, providing interest rates for the farmer at the lowest possible level."

"Sixth: The federal government is spending tens of millions of dollars annually, largely paid in taxes by people who live in the north-eastern states of the Union, for the reclamation of hundreds of thousands of acres of western lands. These added acres of western lands are not needed for food production and constitute an increasing competition with the farmers' lands already in cultivation and so long as we are plagued with surplus crops it seems to be the height of folly to add to our productive area. I therefore favor, until such time as the nation needs them, a complete cessation of land reclamation projects in the west."

"Seventh: It is undoubtedly true that much farm land now being cultivated has largely lost its productivity through failure to practice crop rotation and failure to guard against erosion. Sound measures for the retirement of these lands from production and the institution of soil conservation in some sound, humane and sensible manner should be set up."
